DOCKET NO. 23 14840

DECISION AND ORDER

In 2019, Zachariah Roetcisoender was electrocuted in the course of employment with Mastec North America, Incorporated. The Department of Labor and Industries allowed his industrial insurance claim for an industrial injury and provided benefits, including treatment for his physical injuries and mental health. On September 29, 2021, the Department issued an order closing the claim. The Department mailed the closing order to Mr. Roetcisoender's attorney, employer, and attending physician under the claim. Mr. Roetcisoender filed protests to the 2021 closing order on February 15, 2023, and March 10, 2023. In response, the Department issued an order on March 21, 2023, and determined that it could not reconsider the closing order because the protests were not filed within 60 days of the disputed order. Mr. Roetcisoender appealed this decision.

Our industrial appeals judge decided this appeal pursuant to a summary judgment motion.¹ After the parties filed briefing and our industrial appeals judge held a hearing, our judge determined that the protests were not timely filed and affirmed the Department order. Mr. Roetcisoender filed a timely Petition for Review. We agree with our judge's decision to affirm the Department order. We granted review for the limited purpose of amending the findings of fact to include a finding addressing the industrial injury, adding a finding of fact and a conclusion of law addressing the summary judgment standard, and including a list of the documents and other evidence considered before granting summary judgment pursuant to CR 56(h). Summary judgment is granted for the Department and the Department order dated March 21, 2023, is accordingly AFFIRMED. The list of documents and other evidence considered before granting summary judgment is included in the addendum to this Decision and Order.

DISCUSSION

The Department issued an order closing Zachariah Roetcisoender's industrial injury claim on September 29, 2021. It mailed the closing order to Mr. Roetcisoender's attorney, the employer, and Matthew Brown, D.O., the attending physician under the claim. The Department did not receive

¹ We note that the claimant's motion was titled "Claimant's Motion on Timeliness," but construe the motion as a motion for summary judgment herein, as our industrial appeals judge effectively did in the Proposed Decision and Order.

1 returned mail for the recipients of the closing order. Mr. Roetcisoender filed protests to the
3 September 2021 closing order on February 15, 2023, and March 10, 2023.

4 While the claim was open, Dr. Brown treated Mr. Roetcisoender for his physical conditions.
6 Later, Dr. Brown referred him to Leslie Poppe, Ph.D., a psychologist, to treat him for mental health
8 conditions related to the injury. Mr. Roetcisoender saw Dr. Poppe for five or six visits from June 2020
9 through September 2020.

10 The substantive issue in this case is timeliness. The order on appeal was issued by the 11
12 Department in response to Mr. Roetcisoender's protests filed about a year and a half after the 13
14 Department issued the closing order. The order on appeal stated that the Department cannot
15
16 reconsider its decision because the protest was not timely.

17 The Proposed Decision and Order affirmed the Department's order. Our industrial appeals
18
19 judge rejected the claimant's legal argument that the psychologist, Dr. Poppe, who had treated
20
21 Mr. Roetcisoender for accepted mental health conditions under the claim, should have been notified
22
23 of the closing order. Mr. Roetcisoender filed a Petition for Review, and contends that his protests to 24
25 the closing order were timely because the order did not become final and binding without service to 26
27 Dr. Poppe.

28 After review of the record, we agree with our industrial appeals judge and hold that
29
30 Mr. Roetcisoender's statutory construction arguments lack support and misconstrue the cited legal
31
32 authority. We find that the 2021 closing order was properly communicated pursuant to 33
34 RCW 51.52.050 and became a final and binding order because no protest or appeal was filed in a
35
36 timely manner. We do not agree with the argument that the order was not properly communicated
37
38 because the Department did not mail the order to Dr. Poppe, a psychologist who had six visits with 39
40 Mr. Roetcisoender in 2020 and, as conceded by Mr. Roetcisoender, was not his attending physician.
41
42 RCW 51.52.050(1) requires the Department to "serve the worker, beneficiary, employer, or other 43
44 person affected thereby," and the Department complied with this requirement when it mailed the 2021
45
46 closing order in this claim. In compliance with Shafer v. Dep't of Labor & Indus., the Department also 47
48 properly served Dr. Brown, the attending provider for Mr. Roetcisoender.²

49 Our industrial appeals judge decided this matter on summary judgment. Summary judgment
50
51 was appropriate as the facts were not in dispute. An order granting summary judgment requires
52
53 1) a designation of the documents and other evidence considered before the order was issued,
54
55

² See Shafer v. Dep't of Labor & Indus., 166 Wn.2d 710 (2009).

1 2) a finding of fact that there is no genuine issue of material fact, and 3) a conclusion of law that the
2 Department is entitled to a decision as a matter of law per CR 56. We granted review to add these
3 three items as they were not included in the Proposed Decision and Order. We also add a factual
4 finding to address Mr. Roetcisoender's industrial injury.

7 DECISION

9 In Docket No. 23 14840, the claimant, Zachariah Roetcisoender, filed an appeal with the Board
10 of Industrial Insurance Appeals on April 11, 2023, from an order of the Department of Labor and 11 Industries dated March 21, 2023. In this order, the Department determined it could not reconsider its 12 September 29, 2021 order. This order is correct and is affirmed.
13

14 FINDINGS OF FACT

- 15
16 1. On September 15, 2023, an industrial appeals judge certified that the
17 parties agreed to include the Jurisdictional History in the Board record
18 solely for jurisdictional purposes.
19
20 2. Zachariah Roetcisoender sustained an industrial injury on 21 September 12, 2019, when he was electrocuted in the course of his
22 employment.
23
24 3. On September 29, 2021, the Department issued an order closing
25 Mr. Roetcisoender's claim, BE-94739.
26
27 4. Copies of the closing order were mailed to Mr. Roetcisoender's attorney
28 of record, Mr. Roetcisoender's attending provider, and the employer of 29 injury. None were returned as undeliverable.
30
31 5. Between September 29, 2021, and February 14, 2023, no protests or 32 appeals were filed with the Department or the Board of Industrial
33 Insurance Appeals to the Department's September 29, 2021 closing
34 order.
35
36 6. Mr. Roetcisoender, through his new attorney, filed protests to the 37 September 29, 2021 order on February 15, 2023, and March 10, 2023.
38
39 7. On March 21, 2023, the Department issued an order declining to 40 reconsider the September 29, 2021 order because the protests were not
41 received within the 60-day time limitation.
42
43 8. The pleadings and evidence submitted by the parties demonstrate that
44 there is no genuine issue as to any material fact.
45

46 CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

- 47
1. The Board of Industrial Insurance Appeals has jurisdiction over the parties and subject matter in this appeal.
2. The Department is entitled to a decision as a matter of law as contemplated by CR 56.

1 3. Mr. Roetcisoender did not file a timely Protest and Request for
2 Reconsideration with the Department, from the Department order dated
3 September 29, 2021, within the meaning of RCW 51.52.050.

4 4. The Department order dated March 21, 2023, is correct and is affirmed.

5 Dated: March 14, 2024.
